Instructions

1 Start by measuring your wrist length, multiply by 2 and add another 12 inches. This is the amount of beading thread you will need to complete your bracelet.

If you want multi-wrap bracelet, multiply your bracelet length by the amount of wrap you want. And then multiply again by 2 and add 12 inches. This length is what you will need to sew on all your beads and warp back around to complete your bracelet.

2

Sew twice around a bead to make a stopper bead at the end of your beading thread. Sew on a sequence of a SuperDuo and 11/0 Miyuki seed bead. Add enough for your bracelet length. At the end, sew through two seed beads, split ring and two seed bead.

3

Sew down through the second hole of the SuperDuo bead and add a seed bead in between each SuperDuos. At the end, sew through two seed beads, split ring and two seed bead. Tie both beading thread ends together twice or three times. Sew through a few beads before cutting off excess beading thread.

4

Add your choice of clasp and extender chain if needed.
